

'Senior Scam-Jam' scheduled for May 18

N.C. Attorney General to speak at workshop

WAKE FOREST – N.C. Attorney General Josh Stein and N.C. Secretary of State Elaine Marshall will headline a distinguished panel of presenters at the “Seniors at Risk: 21st Century Scam Threats, Preventions and Solutions” seminar on Thursday, May 18 from 8:30 a.m. to noon at the Wake Forest Renaissance Centre, 405 S. Brooks St.,

This workshop will feature several prominent experts discussing useful ways attendees can protect themselves, clients and loved ones from financial, technological and other types of fraud that typically impacts senior adults.

Other featured speakers will include Stephanie Bias, N.C. Department of Insurance; John Maron, N.C. Department of the Secretary of State; and Natalie Wood Riche, N.C. Department of Justice.

Among the topics they will discuss are Medicare and healthcare fraud, counterfeit prescription drugs, pyramid and Ponzi schemes, internet, investment, lottery, sweepstakes scams and much more.

The “Senior Scam Jam” is free, but pre-registration is required at www.tfsnc.org/events no later than Friday, May 12.

The event is sponsored by Triangle Family Services in partnership with Bank of America, AARP, Resources for Seniors and the Wake Forest Renaissance Centre.
